

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. I am on the no-call list and am enjoying having undisturbed dinners and undisturbed activities, since I do not have to answer phone calls from telemarketers. I used to receive about 20 telemarketer calls per week; that number has been cut to two. If I choose not to be contacted by telemarketers, that choice should be respected. Please do not do anything to change Indiana's Telephone Privacy law.
